

Att : Jessica Pitchford , jppitchford@gmail.com

-The MD of Pan Macmillan SA Terry Morris , terry@panmacmillan.co.za ,

-Andrea Natrass, andrea@panmacmillan.co.za

-Sandile Nkosi

sandile@panmacmillan.co.za

Tel: +27 \(0\)11 731 3441117313441)

-Nkateko Traore

nkateko@panmacmillan.co.za

Tel: +27 \(0\)11 731 3451117313451)

Topic : Blood in their hands

Publication: September 2016 ISBN: 978-1-77010-477-8 eISBN: 978-1-77010-478-5

Dear Miss Pitchford

1. In connection with your recent book in SA called “Blood on their Hands “ and within you have used my name without my consent ,I am strongly protesting to the fact that you have described false incidents and unproven allegations if not plain blatant lies about myself.

2. As a veteran Journalist you should have stayed within your professional ethics and present me the opportunity –as suggested by both Sunday times legal editor Susan Smuts and Journalist Stephan Hofstatter, back in February 2016 and again via email on August 12th 2016 -,to respond to any allegations concerning my name thus avoiding exposing yourself to this embarrassing moment.

1. Clearly from your decision not to contact me and proceeding with writing gossip, false allegations, and crude errors within your book about my character, without even attempting to establish veracity of your contents of your book, not only you are misleading your readers, but you are clearly demonstration your bias published views as an author of this book, without even knowing me or have met me.

In view of the above I would ask you to set the record straight and publish an apology in respect to your personal attacks to my name, especially since you had the opportunity twice to forward me questions.

Furthermore, I will request the publisher company to issue a revised edition of the book correcting all the factual errors, factual events and lies about my character by presenting “the true story behind the Booyesen story” and set the record straight.

I can provide solid proof contradicting all allegations against me and furthermore demonstrating the true nature of Booyesen and his string of lies in your book.

I am looking forward for your reply.

Aris Danikas